Pick northern highbush blueberries at Kiger Island Blues (40) or enjoy apples and sweet cider in the fall.

Then head south to Monroe and visit eco-farm and tiny farm store, Lilliputopia (55). Before heading back to Corvallis, swing by Hiatt Farm (46) where you'll find scratch-baked sweet rolls, buttermilk biscuits and pies, outdoor seating and yard games.

When you're ready for dinner, grab a tasty meal from one of the food carts at Common Fields (29) in downtown Corvallis, where a craft beverage from the tap room and kid-friendly activities will keep the whole family happy.

Stay the night at Donovan Place (31), a working Christmas-tree farm with lodging and a local master potter. Take home one of the ceramic treasures to help remember your trip.

MAKERS AND INNOVATORS SWEET HOME TO ALBANY

A farm-fresh feast through craft beverages and history

Start your day with fresh coffee and pastries at the Sweet Home (52) or Albany Farmers' Markets (11) to peruse the locally made products. Then head south to Thompson's Mills State Heritage Site (44) for a free guided tour of Oregon's last water-powered mill, built in the mid-19th century.

Make your way to Corvallis for lunch at 4 Spirits Distillery (39) and learn about the history behind their name while sipping on a cocktail made from one of their award-winning spirits and taking in the views of Marys Peak.

Later, enjoy a craft beverage from one of our local favorites - Block 15 Restaurant and Brewery (25) offers hop-forward ales and crisp ciders; 2 Towns Ciderhouse (20) is the perfect place for seasonal ciders; and Spiritopia (12) has an appealing array of innovative spirits to sample.

If your visit coincides with summer, pick blueberries at Blueberry Meadows (16) while enjoying a popsicle or cold brew. Celiac-safe Midway Farms (3) on the way to Albany is open year-round to browse the farm stand or join a cider pressing party, wine tasting, or twilight yoga.

Amble on over to Springhill Cellars Winery (2) for high-quality wines with high-quality views before making your way to downtown Albany where the petite sweets at Natural Sprinkles (9) and locally-roasted brews at Margin Coffee Roasters (8) are sure to perk you up.

Taste the region's flavors with an elegant dinner at Sybaris Bistro (6), where a new eclectic menu is adopted every month. If you'd prefer a more hands-on approach, try an evening cooking class or farm-to-table dinner from Honeybrine Catering at the Officer's Club (1). Check their Facebook page for upcoming classes and events.

FLORA AND FAUNA ALSEA TO ALBANY

Discover nature's wonders in food and the outdoors

Begin your journey along the Marys Peak to Pacific Scenic Byway, following coastal breezes into the valley. Idyllic mornings at Alsea's Leaping Lamb Farm and Farm Stay (49) might include feeding lambs before breakfast. Next, visit Alsea Trout Hatchery to see steelhead spawning from November through March, or explore the photo-worthy gardens at The Thyme Garden (48) April through August. Make sure to purchase one of their 10,000 herb starts to bring the garden home with you.

Nourish your spirit with Sunday brunch at Eats & Treats Café (33) in downtown Philomath, where offerings are made from scratch and gluten free. Then stock up on local goods and fresh produce at the Philomath Farmers' Market (36) or Sunbow Produce (37), a 50-year old farm with certified organic farming methods.

Enjoy craft beers on the roof of Sky High Brewery (21) in downtown Corvallis while enjoying the views of Marys Peak - the highest point in the Coast Range with wildflowers from spring through summer and stunning panoramic views year round.

On your way to Albany, Peoria Road Farm Market (35) vendors await in a cheery red barn with some of the highest-quality and best-priced seasonal produce around.

Continue along farmlands to Iron Water Ranch (17) to take a fiber arts class and meet sheep, including newborn lambs each spring.
